Subject: Import Announcement – David Nippard

The West Auckland Admirals are pleased to announce confirmation of a new import player to our roster for the 2019 season.

David Nippard hails originally from a small town in Newfoundland, Canada but now calls Fort McMurray in northern Alberta home. At least when he's not playing professionally in Europe. Far from being "just a jock", he holds two degrees across Business Management and Kinesiology and has a keen interest in the physiology science side of sport.

David spent the last season with Morzine-Avoriaz in France and was one of the team's leading scorers during his time. The team narrowly missed promotion during their playoff run, with David a major contributor going at 2.0 PPG. He has previously played in the college system in Canada.

He is a fast, skill forward who also does excellent work along the boards and in the corners. Physically imposing, he will be hard to knock off the puck and is looking forward to helping the Admirals climb the Birgel mountain once more in 2019.
